TSA's Directions Leadership Conference Had The Heart, Brains And Courage To Inspire, Motivate

By Mary Jo Patterson, Leadership Services Manager

The early October 2005 Directions Leadership Conference highlighted the heart, brains, and courage of TSA. The weekend was fun, informative, and packed with great activities for student officers and advisors. Hosted in Reston, VA, home of national TSA, student officers and advisors from 17 states shared in four days of learning and inspiration.

The weekend consisted of ice breakers, team building activities, guest

Restructured Affiliation Dues Gives TSA Its Future

By Bradley Jennings,

Past 2004-2005 National TSA President

While serving as National TSA President last year, I became aware of the need to consider adjusting the individual and CAP membership dues. The CAP dues had not been increased in 15 years at the national level. The last time individual membership dues were increased was in 1999, when James Coleman, Jr. was TSA's national president.

Since it has been seven years from when individual membership dues were increased, it was recommended to raise them from $7 to $9. Likewise, it was suggested that CAP dues be increased from $250 to $350. In addition, the CAP discount program – where multiple CAP chapters receive a discount for affiliating at the same time – was not cost-effective and needed to be eliminated. All of this was necessary to keep TSA operating without going into debt.

The TSA, Inc. Board of Directors considered a dues increase and the elimination of the CAP discount program only after researching the matter. At the request of the board, the TSA staff gathered data on the dues of other CTSOs and related internal membership and financial information. The board did not make a rush decision. National officers were polled about a dues increase in early spring 2005 and were given the opportunity to provide input.

A TSA corporate member represents each TSA state delegation. At the annual corporate meeting in Chicago, then-TSA, Inc. President, Mike Amrhein, explained the need for the dues adjustments and reasons for the elimination of the CAP discount program. At the June board meeting, dues increases were approved and the CAP discount program was eliminated.

A registered parliamentarian was consulted prior to any action taken this past June in Chicago. In addition, a registered parliamentarian was present at the board meeting and the corporate meeting. Any action that was taken regarding the dues adjustment and/or the CAP discount program was done so with knowledge by the on-site parliamentarian and according to the TSA, Inc. Bylaws and the TSA Bylaws. Also, at the recent national conference in Chicago, state advisors were told about the dues adjustment and the elimination of the CAP discount program.

The leadership of TSA would not be imposing a dues adjustment or eliminating the CAP discount program unless there were legitimate reasons to do so. I guarantee you these undertakings were done to benefit and enhance TSA. Thank you for your support of this necessary action to keep TSA financially stable.

speakers, state delegations visiting Capitol Hill, in Washington, D.C., and leadership training for student officers and advisors. Directions culminated in state meetings and a group picture before all headed home, armed with their newly found skills and enthusiasm at becoming more effective TSA leaders in the state.

The leadership curriculum portion of the Directions weekend contained three strands – one accommodated the newcomer to this annual training program, one for those who previously attended and a program for TSA advisors.

Leadership activities were experiential in topics ranging from how to: make the news, run a focus group, develop an action plan, explore a grant proposal, search for Internet fund-raising sites, develop an action plan for your state, and plan your calendar. Also, students learned goal setting, effective communication, problem solving, and meeting management skills. Attendees are now ready to replicate these activities at local training endeavors.

Consider joining us in other national leadership programs in the future!

Price's Point

Shout About TSA From The Mountaintops; You Will See That Everyone Listens

By Steve Price,
TSA, Inc. Board of Directors, President

Hello TSA. Here we are already close enough to Thanksgiving to smell turkey. Has someone put the school year on fast forward? My school system started in early August and it doesn't seem possible that it's already November!

I hope that your chapters have been out there recruiting new members as well as helping start chapters at other schools. TSA is on the brink of breaking 200,000 members. Will you be the 200,000th member or will you be the one who recruits the 200,000th member? Sometimes all it takes to get a new member is to tell them what you get out of the experience.

Students listen to fellow students when it comes to what they think is worth the time. Don't forget that your chapter is eligible for a TSA's White Star if you start a new chapter. Just send in the White Star Program form, and you earn the star pins.

By now we hope you heard that the board of directors, acting on the membership's requests, has renamed TSA's 25th Anniversary Fund to the Champion Fund. This is in answer to our chapters wanting to help other chapters in financial need across the US as a result of disasters such as the two massive hurricanes that devastated the Gulf States.

The fund can help our affected chapters by providing CAP affiliation dues for them. It can also be used to help start brand new chapters or re-start chapters that have been inactive for several years. Want more information? See the link on our TSA website at www.tsaweb.org or call the national office at 703/860-9000

The Directions

Leadership Conference took place in Reston this past October. It provided important officer training for the students and advisors who were fortunate enough to attend. The rain didn't dampen the energy of our members who had some fun and memoorable experiences.

Did you know that the conference is not just for state officers? My chapter officers attended and before it was over they had been adopted by the New Hampshire and Kansas delegations. We had a blast, and for the first time in my life I was able to actually stand on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial as well as most of the monuments. I want to thank both groups for their generosity. Good job to our national staff for their efforts and to our national officers who became the cast of the Wizard of Oz. Of course Madame President, Katie, was Dorothy and led us all down the "Yellow Brick Road of Leadership."

Reminders: Don't forget to apply for the Achievement Program Pins. Most of you probably have enough points earned from the check lists for at least a Bronze right now! Go to the link on the website or look in the back of the TSA Competitive Events Guidebook for the forms. Finally, tell as many elected officials (local, state and national legislators), news outlets, your school administration and anyone else who will listen about your organization and the great things you do. Remember that the things you do – that you view as no big deal – are viewed as amazing by most of the public. Popular belief says kids are not capable of making a difference. We know better.

Our Plans:

Boost Membership, Increase Communication, Serve Members

By Katy Galambos,
National TSA President

When I wrote my first School Scene column as president, I was just returning to Tennessee from the first National Officer meeting of the year in Reston, Virginia, in July. I cannot begin to explain how impressed and amazed I was at how well the team bonded and worked together within those first few days of getting to know each other.

We worked by day and played by night, and after all our obligations were done, we produced an ambitious yet achievable action plan for the year. Everything we hope to accomplish falls under one "umbrella" or general category. Thus, we created an appropriate acronym to reference it by: IMTEC: increasing membership through enhanced communication. The plan is straight forward; we want to gain membership by not only gaining new members, but also strengthening and focusing on those we already have. This is an important aspect in any organization's growth, because you are what make TSA everything it is.

Specifically, we made a few changes in our methods of reaching members and officers. We are continuing the School Scene, and the newsletter sent to state officers will be called Officer Scene and available electronically, but accessed through Member Messenger on the TSA homepage. Officer Scene will enable more people to benefit from the articles because we have broadened the targeted audience to all officers at any level. Also, the Bridging the Gap regional update will be available through Member Messenger.

We are highly promoting the new TSA Store, which opened last April. If anyone attended Nationals in Chicago, I'm sure you saw our TSA T-shirts and sweats, as well as the TSA Tiger stuffed animal.

Our main goal, however, is to listen to what the members want. Please e-mail any of us and let us know what we can do for you! E-mail me at NationalTSAPresident@yahoo.com.

Make This Year A Success As You Participate At All TSA Levels

By Allen Jordan, Jr.
National TSA Vice-President

The city lights, sights, and sounds all made Chicago a conference that we will never forget. The culture and history made Chicago a place that I would love to take my own family. First of all, I would like to thank the advisors, alumni, and members who made the conference a success. It is through your efforts that the conference took place as smoothly as it did.

Now, we are all looking forward to an even better conference in Dallas, Texas. In Texas, there are an abundance of shopping centers and tourist sites. In order to experience all that this conference will have to offer, you must first put your best efforts into your regional and state contests. These competitions will test and recognize the learning that has taken place in your classrooms throughout the year.

Being a member of TSA is an honor. You are part of a distinguished group – the only national student organization devoted exclusively to the needs of young people in technology education. With TSA's growing membership of 200,000 students, it's exciting to know that we are the power of technology education today. We will be needed in the future because we are being trained for careers that will power the technology, transportation, construction, communication, and biotechnology needs of this country.

The competitive events you will be involved in at the regional and state level will challenge you to do your best and I wish all of you the best of luck. The national conference in Dallas, Texas, will be your final recognition. I'm looking forward to seeing you there. Please contact me at NationalTSAVicePresident@yahoo.com.

TSA Member Messenger Is A New Communication E-mail Tool; So Sign Up Soon

By Claire Hanchey,
National TSA Secretary

Have you ever purchased a magazine with the intent to read a specific article only to realize how difficult it is to locate that one article? Do you ever wish there were an easier way to sort through everything in order to locate what you're looking for? Maybe this will help!

Previously, National TSA Officers produced three separate publications at various intervals throughout the year. These publications included the State Officer Scene, Bridging the Gap and the School Scene newsletter. After lengthy discussions and great ideas, the National Officer Team is proud to offer you these same publications with a slight twist.

NEW THIS SCHOOL YEAR – TSA members will be able to sign up for a new messaging service called Member Messenger on the TSA homepage www.tsaweb.org.

The Member Messenger will appear as a box on the TSA homepage and all you have to do is fill in the required information and then be on the lookout for messages for your region. This is the Bridging the Gap program from last year, yet delivered to you in a new format.

Also, by signing up for Member Messenger, chapter and state officers will have access to the Officer Scene. Written by the National TSA Officers, this information will assist you in running an efficient chapter.

Thus, the quarterly copy of School Scene will be the only hardcopy publication received by your chapter via traditional mail. So be sure to sign up today for Member Messenger by going to www.tsaweb.org.

Our goal is to organize the information available to you so that you will be able to easily find what interests you. We would appreciate your feedback about our new ways of communicating with you. If you have anything you would like to share, please don't hesitate to contact any National Officer. Contact me at: NationalTSASecretary@yahoo.com

Buy The Way:

It's Chic; It's Cool; It's Fun: TSA Apparel, Accessories Can Be Yours Today

By John Semmens,
National TSA Treasurer

Due to outstanding reviews, the TSA Store will be continuing sales again this year. You can go to the National TSA website at www.tsaweb.org and click on TSA Store to find all types of TSA merchandise. These include official TSA attire for girls and guys, TSA hoodies, ball caps, long and short sleeved T-shirts, polo shirts, shorts, sweat pants, sweatshirts, messenger bags, and a TSA tiger!

Thus far,

Mississippi, Tennessee, West Virginia, Oklahoma, and Colorado will be promoting the TSA Store at their state conferences. We hope to determine from these five states how popular state sales of TSA merchandise are.

This TSA apparel is a great way to promote our organization within your school, community and state. Giving a TSA apparel gift is an easy way to recognize someone within your chapter or thank a speaker or sponsor. You can even wear it to TSA activities or events.

One great way to utilize your TSA apparel is to wear it during National TSA week from April 24-28, 2006. This not only helps to promote your chapter, but raises awareness about technology education.

Pitsco, Inc. sells TSA pins, patches, and ties at www.shop-pitsco.com. The TSA Store is the only place you can buy TSA apparel. Support your organization, and check out the store online at www.tsaweb.org and click on TSA Store. We hope you'll wear the apparel and accessories with pride. Tanks A Lot

The New TSA Think Tank To Enable Members To Brainstorm About TSA Initiatives

by Trevor Filter,
National TSA Reporter

It's a fact that communication is critical to the integrity (and success) of every organization, big or small... and it's also important to note that communication shouldn't just go one way (...that's called "information"), but two ways. For several years, TSA has published the School Scene as a means to keep the membership informed and updated. Starting this year, TSA is initiating a new program called the TSA Think Tank to bring input from members and advisors—and to further enhance that ever-important two-way communication.

The TSA Think Tank is a group of state advisors, chapter advisors, and twelfth-grade TSA members, called upon no more than five times per year to provide feedback and input on a variety of topics, including membership services, new programs and initiatives, and conferences. All input is gathered via email or short surveys, and takes no more than 20 minutes every month or two... who doesn't have 20 minutes?

TSA truly values the perspectives and opinions of its membership.

If you're interested, the new TSA Think Tank is a fantastic way to have your voice heard. To apply, e-mail Sandy Honour at shonour@tsaweb.org. Include your name, state delegation, and level within TSA (member, state advisor or chapter advisor), and you'll receive further details for getting involved with the program. Thanks for your participation! Contact me at NationalTSAReporter@yahoo.com.

Managing Your Time Effectively Is A Secret of Success; Do What's On Your To-Do List

by Trenton Kissee,
National TSA Sergeant-at-Arms

As students kicked off the new school year and extracurricular activities got under way, some students may find themselves buried under an enormous blanket of projects, practices, and deadlines. So how does the busy student keep up with all of these things, plus find time for homework, a social life, and sleep? The answer is: you learn how to manage your time effectively.

Time management skills are essential for all successful people: below are practical techniques that have helped successful people reach the pinnacles of their potential.

The number one issue that leads to poor use of time is something that almost everyone has been guilty of at one point or another. 'Procrastination', or putting everything off until the last possible minute is a good way to not only get behind, but also turn in projects that are below par.

Using your time wisely is the most efficient way to make sure that you get everything done on schedule. Talking on the phone, watching TV, and playing video games are some things that students spend time doing, and, in the meantime, accomplish nothing. Try to get the things done that are most important first, then you will have more time to do things you enjoy.

Another way to effectively manage your time is to create a To-Do List. A 'To-Do List' is a list of all tasks that you need to carry out. It consolidates jobs that you have to do into one place. You can prioritize these tasks into order of importance. This allows you to tackle the most important ones first. To-Do Lists are essential when you need to carry out a number of different tasks or different sorts of tasks, or when you have made a number of commitments, as students often find themselves doing. If you are often overwhelmed because you have forgotten to do something, you need a To-Do List.

While To-Do Lists are simple, they are also extremely powerful, both as a method of organizing yourself and as a way of reducing stress. Often students may become overwhelmed, or have a seemingly huge number of demands on their time. This may leave them feeling out of control and overburdened with work.

The solution is often simple: Write down the tasks that face you, and if they are large, break them down into their component elements. If these still seem large, break them down again. Do this until you have listed everything that you have To-Do.

So just remember, set goals, don't procrastinate, write everything down, and the year will be a breeze! Contact me at: NationalTSAsergeantatarms@yahoo.com.

Chapter News

Indian Valley High School TSA Chapter Donates To The American Red Cross

The TSA Chapter of Indian Valley High School, 700 Cedar Street, in Lewistown, PA was fortunate to raise funds throughout the years in cooperation with Mr. Jim Houser of Laurel Mountain Fundraisers, Inc. of Latrobe, PA. The IVHS TSA Chapter donated $250 to the American Red Cross for Disaster Relief

Each chapter member's profit from our fundraising goes toward his or her costs for attending our state conference. If a chapter member works hard at fundraising, it is possible for that member to accrue enough profit to attend the state conference with expenses covered. Any profit exceeding the cost of the conference – or any profits gained by chapter members who do not attend the state conference – is retained in the chapter's treasury.

"I believe it is important for young people to experience the satisfying feeling one gets by showing compassion and support for others in need," said Richard D. Penepacker, IVHS TSA chapter advisor.

The Champion Fund Replaces the 25th Anniversary Fund; Member Messenger E-mails Keep Members Up-To-Date; New Membership Pins Available

The TSA, Inc. Board of Directors has renamed the TSA 25th Anniversary Fund (it is now the Champion Fund) and given it broader scope and vision. In order to best help chapters where economic need exists, the Champion Fund will accept applications from three major categories:

- 1) schools where there has never been a TSA chapter before and there is not financial support from the community or school to pay for membership;
- 2) schools where there has not been a TSA chapter in the last five years and there is not financial support from the community or school to pay for membership;
- 3) schools that are experiencing economic hardship (such as natural disaster or local economic downturn) and need assistance with membership dues.

Fortunately, the Champion Fund is in place to help the 28 TSA chapters directly affected by Hurricane Katrina. Each of these chapters are offered a free CAP membership for this school year. As other crisis situations arise, the Champion Fund should be of assistance to specific TSA chapters as well.

Please consider donating to the Champion Fund, so that as funds are dispersed, they can be replenished. Tax deductible donations may be made by individuals (such as members, officers advisors, alumni, or parents), chapters, state delegations, schools, communities, business partners, or any other group. For each $25 donation, the donor will receive a Champion Fund lapel pin (one pin per each $25 donation). For more information about the donating to the Champion Fund, go to www.tsaweb.org and click on "Champion Fund."

Remember that the Champion Fund may apply to schools in your area that you can visit for the purpose starting new chapters – and help your chapter to earn Star status! For a brochure with forms to apply for the Champion Fund, go to www.tsaweb.org and click "How to Join" or contact Sandy Honour at shonour@tsaweb.org.

Stay Informed with TSA Member and Advisor Messenger Service

If you want to receive TSA updates on an up-to-the-minute basis, make sure to sign up to receive the TSA Member or Advisor Messenger service. TSA Member Messenger is designed for student members and TSA Advisor Messenger is for advisors.

To sign up for either Messenger service, go to www.tsaweb.org and enter your e-mail address in either the TSA Member Messenger or the TSA Advisor Messenger box. Start getting the latest TSA information immediately!

New TSA Membership Pin

A new TSA membership lapel pin is now available! This pin lets others know what type of chapter you belong to: CAP or Individual. These colorful, one-inch pins are a great way to identify yourself (and others) at local meetings, state, regional and national conferences. Now available for sale from National TSA at $2 each (minimum of 10 per order).

To order and view the pins, go to www.tsaweb.org and click on "Chapter Membership Pins" under "What's New."

New Membership Recruitment Tool

Many chapters recruit new TSA chapters as part of their program of work for the year, thereby earning White, Blue or Red star status and lapel pins. Current National Officers decided on this concept to help chapters achieve star status – TSA's STARter Pack. This pre-packaged bundle of information is the perfect way to introduce TSA to potential chapters. The package is available for $40 and includes:

- Welcome Letter
- TSA promotional brochure
- TSA recruitment pamphlet
- School Scene sample
- Chapter Affiliation Booklet
- 2005-2006 TSA Directory
- 2005-2006 Chapter Program Kit CD
- Competitive Event Overviews
- One Sample Competitive Event
- TSA Logo Poster
- 10 student flyers
- Reproducible meeting announcement poster
- TSA Store flyer
- Pitsco flyer
- Champion Fund pamphlet
- TSA promotional video

To order a STARter Pack, go to www.tsaweb.org and click on "Resources and Publications."

Online and On Time: AirSet's Free, Web-Based Calendar Remembers For You

By Jill M. Landsman,
TSA Public Relations Manager

Staying organized in your home life means things like keeping track of your cell phone charger, house key, backpack and other daily belongings. It's important to keep your personal stuff in an accessible place, preferably not on the floor. We know that practicing healthy school-work habits is also a good idea. As tech savvy as TSA students are, why not use the Internet as an organizational tool?

So here is a suggestion that might work for you: try out a free web-based calendar program at <http://www.AirSet.com/>.

AirSet offers an online-calendaring service that gives you the chance to post and check multiple schedules in a single place.

This web-based calendar, AirSet by Arena Inc. is the right price: no fee. AirSet's program allows you to set up a password-protected calendar, plug in your TSA and other academic assignments, your errands, plans to meet friends, sports practices and games, your school's academic calendar and more. So, if you are visiting your favorite Aunt or are over at your friend's place, you can check out your online calendar to be reminded about what's doing—or due—that day.

AirSet's creator, a Silicon Valley guru, sees the benefit of using AirSet's online calendar as a valuable practice to help TSA students stay organized: "We think AirSet is a great tool for TSA chapters, both as a general chapter coordination tool as well as for groups working on specific competitions," said Brian Dougherty, AirSet's CEO, who thinks the time has come for online calendaring. "The shared calendar and To-Do list can help coordinate schedules and project deadlines and the blog area provides a great collaborative work space for discussing projects. Best of all, it's all free," he said.

"If you are participating on a team project in your TSA chapter, you can share your calendar with other people using different colors to represent each TSA chapter team member," Dougherty said.

When you are checking your daily e-mails, you'll receive a reminder e-mail and, if you want, a cell phone text message. Your TSA advisor can be a part of your group, to track that each member's "To-Do" converts into "Ta-Done." Log on to your AirSet webpage at <http://www.AirSet.com/>. Salvation Army Donations

Hall Memorial TSA Chapter Helps Hurricane Victims

On Aug. 30, 2005, the first day of school, the students at Hall Memorial (Willington, Conn.) started collecting money for Hurricane Katrina survivors. On Sept. 1, the Village Springs water company was contacted and a pallet of water (60 cases) was ordered to be paid for by Hall Memorial School. Village Springs delivered that pallet along with other pallets they donated to Bradley Airfield. The pallets of water were airlifted to the south by the Connecticut Air National Guard on Saturday, Sept. 3.

A letter went home to student's families requesting personal items, such as soap, combs, tooth brushes, wash cloths, shampoo and more. These items were sorted and packed in kit-type bags labeled adult or child and male or female. A total of 72 kits were put together along with four boxes of extra supplies by members of the Hall Memorial TSA Chapter. These supplies were dropped off at the Salvation Army for shipment to the hurricane victims.

In one month, $1,176 had been collected. Most of the donations were in small bills and coins, with a few families and staff members able to make larger donations. Two fourth grade classes operated a lemonade stand on the weekend and collected more than $100 to donate to the hurricane fund.

The school is still collecting donations each lunch period in the cafeteria. Students hope to join with another school and have student-to-student contact as they continue their support of the hurricane victims. The Hall Memorial School TSA Chapter is thankful to the people who generously donated money and supplies during this time of need.

The mission of the Technology Student Association is to prepare our membership for the challenges of a dynamic world by promoting technological literacy, leadership, and problem solving, resulting in personal growth and opportunities.
