Preventing Senioritis

Chirag Agarwal, National TSA Reporter

As a senior, I can attest to the amount of labor that goes into the college application process. As we anxiously await college decisions and make plans for the future it is of monumental importance to not fall into the trap of indifference known as senioritis.

While it is perfectly acceptable for us to relax a little after completing college applications or solidifying our future plans, we need to pay attention to senior year grades and final exams. We have made it this far, why quit now? Read more

Know the TSA General Rules

State conferences and the national conference are just around the corner! Don't forget, it is necessary to read the TSA general rules and the rules for specific event(s) you are competing in to make sure you are meeting all requirements for competition. TSA general rules are available through the TSA website, and specific event rules are available through your advisor. Any questions about a particular competition can be directed to the event manager listed in the CRC directory.
